

WATER:

An exhibition celebrating our most vital resource

Water is the most crucial resource for life. James May Gallery is seeking all mediums of work to be included in an exhibition focusing on water. The work could be about serious topics such as water conservation and protection, but it could also be about the simple beauty of water. There is something about water that attracts and fascinates us. It is our hope that by celebrating the beauty and necessity of water in all our lives that we can better protect it.
